1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance and that it has not been completely solved. The author then proceeds to a detailed analysis of the problem.
 He shows that the problem can be reduced to a set of equations. These equations are then solved by the method of characteristics. The author then discusses the results of his calculations and shows that they are in good agreement with the experimental data.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general principles of the theory of the structure of the universe. It is shown that the universe is a system of interacting particles, and that the laws of physics are the same everywhere. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the specific properties of the universe, such as its expansion and its curvature. It is shown that the universe is expanding, and that its curvature is positive. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the implications of these results for the theory of the origin of the universe. It is shown that the universe must have had a beginning, and that it is expanding from a point of singularity.
